Village school 'happy and caring'

Youlgrave Primary School has been described as "a happy and caring school where pupils feel secure and confident," according to a report by Government Education Inspectors.

An Ofsted team visited All Saints' Church of England Primary School in Youlgrave in June, and in their newly-published report they praised the school for quality teaching, excellent leadership and good pupil behaviour. They found that the 69-pupil school had made all-round improvements since their last visit in 1998, and cited a number of highly positive areas:

- Good pupil care and support by teachers and staff
- Improvement in teachers' lesson-planning, based on the National Curriculum
- Good moral, cultural and social development of pupils resulting in good behaviour
- Good teaching, especially in the core subjects
- Well-managed finances and resources.

Headteacher Chris Watts, who joined the school at Easter, told the Bugle: "There is a great atmosphere in the school with good relationships between teachers, pupils and parents, which is essential for us to continue to make these improvements."

However, Ofsted recommended better use of new technology, especially access to the Internet (although reliable service provision continues to be a problem for the school), and it was also suggested that the quality of reporting to parents could be improved.

Bugle letters: community action must solve traffic problem

Dear Sir,

With respect, Youlgrave's parking problem is not rearing its ugly head AGAIN (Bugle, Sept '03), it is a hydra that is always with us. It will be with us until enough pressure is brought to bear on the three authorities 'responsible' for these matters for them - finally - to act. Only when we, as a community, can bring DDDC, the County Council, and the Peak Park together, AND make life sufficiently unpleasant for them, will we have a hope of making progress on a problem that is becoming as dangerous as it is frustrating.

Until that time, these three authorities will pass the buck between themselves, denying they have responsibility or the power to act alone. Through the Parish Council, our representative, Bill Moore, and as individuals we must put pressure on these organisations until something is done. That 'something' must also put the needs of the community first and not simply be a homage to the great god, Tourism. I suggest that a threatened Council Tax revolt - we pay a lot of money for very little - might be one way forward. (I, of course, realise that the views expressed in the pages of the Bugle are not necessarily those of the Editor.)

Another point to consider is that due to the lack of affordable local housing, young people are staying at home for longer. Public transport, although improved, remains largely inadequate, so these young people have cars. Families who might have expected to be one- or possibly two-car households, now have to find parking space for three, four or even more vehicles. No wonder tempers fray!

In the meantime, I hope that agricultural traffic will be able to get in and out of Hollow Farm at the bottom of Bradford Dale, unimpeded by thoughtlessly parked vehicles, that no more traffic jams are caused by inconsiderate and frankly illegal parking at Church Corner, and that all vehicles including farm machinery and the Emergency Services, will be able to negotiate Fountain Square without hindrance.

Yours, dreaming of double yellow lines,
Dee Frith
4 Moor Lane, Youlgrave

How do YOU think Youlgrave's traffic problem can be sorted out? Do we need new visitor car parks or residents' parking bays? Why has Derbyshire County Council ruled out yellow lines in our village but allowed them in Eyam and Hartington? Write, phone, fax or email your ideas, views and conspiracy theories to the Bugle at the address on the front page. Thanks, Ed.

WANTED: HISTORIC PHOTOS

- The Hayes family, Mr and Mrs Joe Hayes and/or Ivor Hayes
- The villa, 1 & 2 Westcroft, Coldwell End, 1925-35
- Knocking Alley (before demolition!)

If you can help please contact Dee Frith at 4 Moor Lane, or call Amanda Shaw on 636816. Many thanks!

An eagerly-awaited new book, to be published later this month, records the life and times of Youlgrave over the last 100 years in a series of splendid photographs.

Entitled 'The Spirit of Youlgrave & Alport: the 20th Century in Photographs', the handsome hardback volume contains over 400 black and white photos lent to Youlgrave-based authors Bridget Ardley and Mary Bartlett by local people.

The illustrations depict changing lifestyles as well as long-disappeared buildings, with a way of life enjoyed by our parents and grandparents vividly captured by the lenses of the now-forgotten photographers. With the amount of motor vehicles in Youlgrave today, it's especially remarkable to see the streets free of traffic, and the children evidently using them as a playground.

Copies will shortly be available for sale via Youlgrave Post Office or Roses newsagent, or directly from the publisher: Landmark Publishing, Ashbourne Hall, Cokayne Avenue, Ashbourne DE6 1EJ, tel 01335 347349.

WI in the buff with the Buffs? No!

Hopes of Youlgrave Women's Institute emulating the Yorkshire group, which achieved world-wide fame with a nude calendar, have been dashed with a leading member making the comment: "I haven't heard of it, and I don't like the idea".

The rumour had spread around the village that the ladies were proposing to go one better by posing with the Buffs, the all-male Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, which engages in charity activities and supporting local pubs.

Perhaps the current popularity of the film 'Calendar Girls' will revive the plan. Or perhaps the rumour was false – mere wishful thinking!

"I thought, to hell with the fusty old nude calendar. This year, let's make some cakes and jams...!"

Village Aid: The latest from Bangbutt

We have recently received nine letters from our friends in Bangbutt, and life is slowly getting back to normal out there in Sierra Leone. However, the village of Bangbutt is still without a new school building, any sanitation, and the fresh, clean water via the well they so desperately need.

In their letters they tell us about the excitement and appreciation of everyone when our parcel of books, pencils, rulers, etc was opened in January. They write: "The school materials you sent were distributed to the children in school as soon as they were received. Photographs were taken during the exercise and the elders as part of the school management committee were also present at the scene. The chairman on behalf of the committee expressed his sincere thanks to all those who have contributed these materials for their children."

Unfortunately the camera seems to have stuck and they sent us blank negatives! Luckily, though, a worker from Village Aid in Bakewell is visiting Sierra Leone soon and although he may not have time to visit Bangbutt, he is taking two disposable cameras for us, and will deliver them to Action Aid in Freetown so they can be passed on to Mr Tarawalie, our contact in Bangbutt.

Because they were so appreciative of last year's Christmas parcel, we would like to send a similar present this year. So if the shops, pubs, churches and organisations who last year had collection tins (kindly loaned by Youlgrave Carnival group) would be willing to do so again this year please contact me.

Other news in the letters from Bangbutt is that some of the older children have passed the national primary school exams, and were going to start secondary school in September in Mile 91, which is good news. They also suggest that maybe we could send taped messages to them. Presumably they have a battery-powered cassette player, as they have no electricity. I think the translating into English and then the writing of the letters to us obviously falls on just a few of them, so that is why we do not hear very often and why not everyone gets a reply to our letters. Mr T. writes: "I am not the only person doing the translation in the village. The social worker and teacher also help sometimes. The social worker has gone to Makeni to do a teachers certificate course for three years and always come back during the holidays. This one of the reasons why letters sometimes delay. But we will let the school children do some writing, though they cannot write their own language (Temne). The teachers in the school teach and write English."

The unfortunate news was that a bridge along the road joining Bangbutt to Mile 91 had recently been damaged, so that "...vehicles are not coming towards our end, thus we suffer greatly for kerosene, salt, medicines and people eat tasteless food, and sleep in dark,

"I wish to say sorry for the delay in writing you. You know it is very difficult to organise things in a village. It is like butchering a dear (sic) with a blind man."

Mr Tarawalie, Bangbutt

and worst of all fear that a fever will attack at night as we are getting frequent rains now. And if the situation continues for a month it would be very bad for the children, ageable, and suckling mother." Mr

Tarawalie ends his letter with: "Please extend my love on behalf of the village to all our friends in Youlgrave."

The Youlgrave-Bangbutt Village Link committee here in Youlgrave sometimes finds it difficult to get help or responses from you, our local supporters, and so we were tickled pink by the following comment, which we very much understand! Mr T wrote: "I wish to say sorry for the delay in writing you. You know it is very difficult to organise things in a village. It is like butchering a dear (sic) with a blind man.!!"

Very soon we shall be sending round the reminders about renewing our annual giving, at Harvest time, to the Bangbutt Friendship Scheme, so when you receive that we would appreciate prompt replies. We hope to send out another £500 to Bangbutt soon. Finally, we are still waiting to hear if our application to register as a charity has been successful.

Horticultural Association looks for new growth

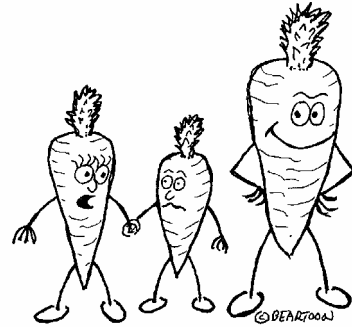

First, a very sincere thank you to all the members and friends of the association who rallied round and made the recent show such a success. There were 42 exhibitors and 240 exhibits which, after such a dry season, was very good indeed.

The open show offers people the opportunity to exhibit vegetables, flowers, preserves and baking, and crafts including paintings, embroidery, knitting, photography, quilting and so on.

We now look forward to another gardening season, but to enable the association to continue the society requires a new Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer. The association has existed for at least 55 years, and we must do all we possibly can to maintain this important part of village life and activity. The association offers members the opportunity to purchase seeds, etc, with a 33% discount, as well as compost, fertilisers and insecticides at a very competitive rate.

So if you want the association to carry on please attend an open meeting on Thursday 9 October at 7.30pm in Youlgrave Reading Room to discuss the future viability of Youlgrave & District Horticultural Association. Everyone welcome – all ages and backgrounds.

For further information please ring Mr D. Robinson on 636456.

Farmyard teams hit the mark

Pub sports in Youlgrave continue to flourish, with the darts and boules teams at the Farmyard Inn the latest to enjoy success.

The boules team has just been promoted to the Derbyshire Dales top division after finishing runners-up in their league. Its members are Chris Shimwell, John Trapp, Martin Parker (with the occasional assistance of Jay and Robyn!), Helen and Graham Brocklehurst, Gordon Coupe and landlord Sean Healey.

The Farmyard's two darts teams have fared even better, winning the Youlgrave & District league AND the Ashford & District league, as well as securing the Platts Harris Plate. Combined team members are: Tony Carter, Andrew Wheeldon, Mark Brindley, Andy Gray, Tim Ripon, Sean Healey, Duncan Mellor, Steve Marsden, Robert Bacon, Chris Phillips, Peter Ashmore and John Marsden.

Sean and Joanne also wish to thank the Wednesday pub quiz team, and wish them well for the new season.

Fred Billinge (1910-2003)

Fred Billinge, who has died recently at the age of 93, was a much-liked local man with a great sense of humour, and who almost to the very end continued to play his beloved piano.

He was born on Stoneyside in 1910, and at the age of 14 began working in a local quarry. He served with the Royal Engineers during the Second World War, landing on Juno beach with the French Canadians on D-Day to operate the cranes unloading supplies.

After the War he became a signwriter for the Darley Dale haulage firm Toft & Tomlinson, but continued to live in Youlgrave where he designed one of the welldressings. In 1956 he married Ellen (Nellie), hiring a bus to take all his family and friends over to Clowne for the wedding.

Throughout his life he played the piano as though it was the most natural thing in the world to do. Most evenings when you passed his house on Main Street you could hear Fred ticking the ivories with gusto. In his younger days he was a member of a jazz band, and later regularly played the piano at the George Hotel. Over the years he played the organ in the parish church and all the chapels, so it is fitting that at his funeral at All Saints, donations went towards a new digital piano for the church.

AM

Bridget Ardley adds:

Fred told an amusing story of how, as a young lad, he and his friends from the village would go down to Haddon Hall to open the gates for visiting charabancs, earning themselves pennies thrown by the drivers. But at the end of the day the keeper would come out, and if he caught the boys he would hold them upside down and empty their pockets of money!

Ann and Peter Knowles add:

We are very sad to hear of the death of Fred, who was very witty and always had a twinkle in his eye. We heard him playing his piano daily, and (of course) he took a great interest in pianos, claiming to have played every one in the village. He was a great supporter of Youlgrave Band, and when he could no longer get out to hear the Well Dressing Concert the Band played his favourite march, 'Bold Robin Hood', specially for him as they marched past his house.

Maggie Ford adds:

We interviewed a number of Youlgrave's long-standing residents for the 'Made of Clay' video, including Fred, and he was so entertaining that at one point we had to stop filming – because we couldn't hold the camera steady as we were laughing so much.

Tales from the tap room

The snow lay so thick on the ground early in 1947 that Dan Prime was heard to draw in his breath and exclaim: "What ho! It'll take more than one summer to shift this lot."

Farmworkers, quarrymen - and those like John Alabaster who had yet to find their postwar economic niche - were recruited to augment the gangs of County Council roadmen employed on snow clearance. With so much of it, the problem was where to clear it to, although less so in Alport where the River Lathkill came in handy.

A wartime marriage had brought John to Alport from the Home Counties. He was a dapper man who, if he found life in rural Derbyshire somewhat incomprehensible, had no intention of showing it. He was content to take everything and everybody at face value - not yet having met the Batemans.

Nor was he too familiar with a shovel, though he was doing his best loading snow onto a lorry when George Bateman of Upper Greenfields Farm happened by in his battered 17 cwt van. He wound down the window and called:

"Excuse me, sir. Are you in charge here?"

John looked around and, since the rest of the gang seemed to be elsewhere, he felt it safe to agree.

"Well sir," asked George, "do you mind telling me where you're taking that snow?"

"It's going in the river," said John.

George looked mildly aghast: "You're never throwing it away?" John confessed that they were.

"I hope you won't mind me asking," went on George, "but is there any chance of getting a load or two up on the farm? We're a bit short... I'd make it worth your while."

It was not the sort of situation the Home Counties equipped him to deal with, but John rose to the occasion with aplomb: "I don't see why it can't be arranged," he pronounced. "I'll have to speak to the Management."

Whether this was Home Counties gullible or Home Counties guile remains a matter of conjecture. As it happened there was another heavy fall of snow, that night, of which Upper Greenfields Farm got its fair share, so John was spared any obligation to Speak to Management. It could have been interesting.

Youlgrave Guides enjoy active year

Guides in the village made the most of this year's wonderful summer. We have had a varied and challenging programme - from canoeing on the Cromford Canal to scrub-clearance at the new Bankside wildlife garden, through to cooking on open fires one evening at the Old Hall Croft (thanks to the Toynes).

Ten girls joined with a unit from Kent to attend LOCKO 2003, the Guides' county camp at Locko Park, near Derby. Despite the good summer we managed to have a week of cloud and rain, but that didn't dampen their spirits at all. As well as making new friends, the girls had the opportunity to take part in activities such as climbing, rafting, canoeing, crafts and circus skills.

We also had a day out at American Adventure, learnt survival skills, and participated in an 'It's a Knockout' competition. Not exhausted by the day-long activities, there were also discos, a carnival and general socialising in the evenings.

We have once more a varied programme for this term and are looking at taking the girls to Northern Ireland next year if we can raise enough funds.

More help, please!

The unit has a dozen keen and active girls, but we really need more adult help. If we cannot get more assistance we will have to cancel some meetings. How many of you spent some time in Brownies and Guides when you were younger? Maybe you could come along and see how rewarding being a volunteer leader can be? We meet once a week in Youlgrave.

If you would like to join us at a meeting, or want to know more, please contact Penny Edmonds on 01629 814348.

Youlgrave WI seeking new faces

September saw the W.I. resuming again after the August break and the meeting opened with the unaccompanied singing of Jerusalem. We do miss our pianist who is now a Church Bell Ringer and her practices are on Tuesday evenings.

During the month many of us met Trevor Wragg at the National Stone Centre for the follow-up meeting to our July talk. We saw the 19 stone walls representing all parts of the British Isles and commemorating the Millennium. Another very interesting evening rounded off with supper at The Rising Sun.

The business meeting followed. We were reminded to bring the envelopes of unwanted jewellery for the 'Heart Start' charity to the Post Office for our representatives to take to the DFWI. Autumn Council Meeting. Also, it's time for DFWI. Raffle Draw again.

An explanation was given for all the 'freebies' in the WI magazine - a lot of unwanted paper - but the various companies pay the WI for distribution and this helps funds. So saying, the NFWI inform us of an increase in the subscription for next year.

Names were taken for a visit to see the film Calendar Girls which will be showing in Chesterfield.

A letter of thanks has been received from the Village Hall Committee for the cash passed over to them from the profits on Well Dressing Teas. Tickets were issued for the Fashion Show at Lady Manners.

The Autumn Group Meeting is to be held at Great Longstone on October 22nd and we all look forward to that evening.

President retiring

It was with sadness that we received the news that Jennifer Easton will be retiring as our President in November. Jennifer has done a very good job on our behalf and we sincerely hope that another member will be willing to lead us onwards after Jennifer's good example. Also Ann Knowles will be retiring as our postal secretary - so come on, ladies, and be willing for your names to go forward for positions of importance and keep Youlgrave WI on track.

At the local Horticultural Show two of our members gained prizes, Eileen Bacon in the Cookery Section and Alice Brassington in the Embroidery Section. Congratulations to them both.

The speaker for the evening was Hilary Board who gave us a talk and demonstration of Hand Painting on Silk. We were able to 'have a go' ourselves on stencils that Hilary had prepared for us. A very enjoyable time was had by all, and everyone went home with a sample of their evenings efforts. I feel that several members will be trying this out themselves. Next month the talk is "A walk from Coast to Coast" by Andrew Firth. Come along and enjoy this with us.

What would you like for your family? Think about it, and –

Ancient Bloodlines – the Birds family

There are thankfully still quite a few descendants of this very ancient family bearing the name BIRDS still living within this ancient parish.

The Birds of Locks, Spondon and Stanton Old Hall trace their line back on an ancient Pedigree in the Record Office to about 1330. John Berd or Beard was MP for the Borough of Derby approximately 1366-77. Marrying into wealthy landowning families as Agard, Curzon, Dethick and Coke, they became half-brothers to the Gilberts through their mothers (the widowed daughter of William Coke of Drusley's) remarriage. They sold their Locko estate to the Gilbert half-brother and returned to their estate at Stanton Old Hall in about 1583. There are detailed wills of the family and detailed inventories, as they were a yeoman family. The will of George Birds of 1793 leaves seven seats or pews in Youlgrave Church, denoting their yeoman status.

They used an ancient bloodline Christian name for generations of sons – 'Welgreaves', and this name could still be traced into the 1800s in Manchester.

There is one poignant note recorded in the history, as to the character of these ancestors of ours – for still today, many indeed most of our old line village families are descendants in some way, directly or indirectly from this ancient name... and that is a footnote alongside a name in Youlgrave Burial Registers: 13 August 1599 'Thos Birds, Constable of Youlgrave, a kinde neighbour'.

YOULGRAVE VILLAGE HALL

A 'Pie & Peas Halloween Supper Dance' led by Marina Hawley will take place at the Village Hall on Friday 31 October, from 7.30-10pm. £3 entry charge on door, or in advance from Hollands. Not to be missed!

A huge thank you for all those who made last month's Attic Sale such a success. The bacon butties were especially popular (yes – they were delicious! Ed). Over £360 was raised towards the Village Hall Project to refurbish the village's historic hall.

We also had a wonderful response from local children who attended auditions for the forthcoming Panto ('The Queen of Hearts', 27 Jan-7 Feb 2004). A total of 32 children have now been cast, and the costume-makers have already begun work.

Finally, look out for notices for the new Tai Chi classes at the Hall.

Let Bill Moore know, so he can press your ideas at Matlock!

The new indoor bowls mat is proving a great success. Come along and take part Tuesday afternoons from 2pm.
